MORSE CLAIMS HIS INDICTMENT IS INJUSTICE

Says They Were Actuated by Personal Feeling Against Him

NO WARRANTS ISSUED

Indictments Charge Many Millions of Government Funds Were Misappropriated by Morse Interests.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Charles W. Morse, former convict, three of his sons and eight of his associates in the various concerns known as the Morse Companies, were indicted yesterday in the District Supreme Court. They were charged with conspiracy to defraud the government.

The companies concerned with the construction and operation of shops are the Groton Iron Works, of Groton, Conn.; the Virginia Shipbuilding Co., of Alexandria, Va., and the United States Transport Company, Inc.

War contracts, it was officially stated at the Shipping Board today, aggregating $40,000,000 had been awarded to the Morse companies, upon which approximately $37,000,000 was advanced by the government. Of the latter sum, it was stated, "many millions" had been misappropriated by the contractors.

Two bills, each containing two counts, were filed by the Federal Grand Jury with Chief Justice McCoy, of the Supreme Court. No warrants for the arrest of the accused men had been served this afternoon, but all were given notice through their counsel that they were expected to surrender and give bond.

Through his counsel, Wilton J. Lambert, of this city, Morse issued a statement this afternoon declaring the indictment to be "terribly unjust," and asserting his belief that it was secured because of personal feeling against him by Attorney General Daugherty because of a disagreement over the fee paid by Morse when Mr. Daugherty acted as one of his attorneys in obtaining his release from the Atlanta Penitentiary. To this statement the attorney general tonight refused to make any reply.

William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, and Stuart S. Gibboney, counsel for the Morse interests, are mentioned in the indictments as having presented on behalf of their clients false information to the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Neither attorney, however, was held by the Grand Jury to have known that the information in question was false.

It also is declared by the Grand Jury that "divers other persons" are suspected of having participated in the alleged fraudulent practices, but it is admitted by the jury that their identity is not established. Whether some or all of these alleged conspirators will be discovered in the course of the trial remains to be seen.

One of the indictments charges that the defendants conspired to defraud the government under Section 37 of the criminal code, a crime punishable by a fine of $10,000 or two years' imprisonment, or both. This is the extreme penalty which may be imposed upon the group indicted, if convicted. The other indictment charges them with conspiracy to defraud the Emergency Fleet Corporation, a corporate agent of the government, in violation of Section 35 of the code.

Urges Prompt Action

"If Your Income is Taxable, Make Returns Before March 15" Says Howard

L. B. Howard, of the income tax branch of the Internal Revenue Office, wishes to impress upon those who will be required to file income tax returns to do so as soon as it may be possible, thus avoiding the usual eleventh hour rush. He says, in regard to the change of the law from that of previous years:

"Heads of families having an income of $2,000 or more will be required to file the income tax return blanks, although they will be exempted if their income does not exceed $2,500, with an additional allowance of $400 for each dependent child under the age of 18 years. Single persons having an income of $1,000 or over must also file these returns. Salaries of single persons that amount to more than $1,000 are taxable.

"The last day on which the returns may be filed is March 15. We have arranged to have this office open every day until that time from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., and for a week or ten days prior to March 15 the officewill be open at nights.

"All persons who have salaries sufficiently large to be subject to the income tax ruling are urged to make their returns promptly and thus save themselves much trouble and inconvenience, as well as to enable this office to expedite the work."

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

Washington, Feb. 28.—Charles W. Morse and eleven others were indicted yesterday by the Federal Grand Jury on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States Government and conspiracy to defraud the United States Shipping Board, an agent of the government. The indictments which charged the twelve men with having diverted government funds to their own use were presented in connection with certain transactions of the alleged conspirators whereby more than $5,000,000 was obtained from the Shipping Board since 1917.

Besides Morse the following were indicted: Benajmin, Harry and Erwin A Morse, sons of Charles W. Morse, Colin Livingston, president of the National Boy Scouts of America and prominent local banker; W. W. Scott, local attorney; George N. Burdette, New York attorney, Rupert M. Much former treasurer of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation, L. A. Christie, Nehamiah Campbell, of New York, Philip Reinhardt, of Baltimore, Md., former government auditor stationed at the Alexandria plant, and R. O White, of New York City president of the United States Transport Company.

Various transactions alleged to have been made by Morse and the others all of whom held various offices in the Groton Iron Works of Groton Connecticut and the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation and the United States Transport Company are contained in the indictments returned.

The charges made are that the men obtained money from the Shipping Board by making false statements regarding the value of plant equipment, that funds deposited to the credit of the various companies for ship construction were used in plant building, that false reports were made regarding progress on construction of ships and funds obtained.

It is also charged that in connection with the United States Transport Company of which Morse was the principal stockholder ships on which the company had an option were used as freighters for the government and the funds derived were withheld by the alleged conspirators. An additional charge is made that certain plant equipment and material was sold without the authority of the Shipping Board and the proceeds retained by Morse and other officers of the company.

The alleged shady transactions are said to have covered a period extending from June 1917 when Morse was first awarded a contract to build wooden ships until May, 1921, when the United States Transport Company was in full operation using ships built at the Groton and Alexandria plants of the Groton Iron Works.

Records in the case according to United States Attorney Peyton Gordon show that the twelve men were connected with the three different organizations at various times the Morses controlling the boards of directors of the companies.

It is also shown that at various times either Charles W. Morse or his sons would hold the office of president in one of the companies.

Mr. Morse in a statement said:

"The Attorney General, I have heard brought every effort to bear to secure the indictment" the statement reads, "because of a disagreement over the fee I paid to him when he acted as one of my attorneys in ob-

MORGAN'S CASE TO GRAND JURY

Miss Elsie Baggott Was Fatally Injured February 22

Preliminary Investigation Heard This Morning Before Acting Police Justice A. B. Nicol

Edward S. Morgan, whose automobile, February 22, struck and fatally injured Miss Elsie Baggott of Nokesville, Va., following a preliminary hearing in the Police Court today, was held for the action of the Grand Jury by Acting Police Justice A. B. Nicol Morgan furnished a bail bond in the sum of $2,000.

In summing up the case Acting Police Justice Nicol stated that cases of this kind are not tried in the Police Court, its duty being simply to hear witnesses to ascertain the evidence. He added that it was clear from the evidence that the affair was an accident, although there was some evidence to warrant a Grand Jury investigation.

Morgan was represented by Attorney H. Noel Garner and the mother of the dead girl by Attorney Carl Budwesky.

At the request of Attorney Garner a warrant subsequently was made out in the case.

According to the testimony of Morgan, he was running south on Pitt street between King and Prince streets at the time and he did not see Miss Baggott until she had her hands on the radiator of his machine. Testimony of a large number of other witnesses who had appeared before the coroner's jury also were heard. Their testimony did not vary from that originally giv...

PRINCESS MARY WEDDING GIFTS FILL PALACE

Has Busy Day Receiving Them And Trying on Gowns

WANAMAKER GIFT

Bride-to-Be and Viscount Lascelles, The Groom Appear at a Final Party

London, Feb. 28.—Princess Mary and Viscount Lascelles spent the last morning before their wedding receiving a number of individuals and deputations, whose offerings swelled the vast collection of gifts already overflowing the state rooms of Buckingham Palace.

To each visitor bringing a gift the princess expressed her thanks. During the past fortnight she had voiced dozens of these acknowledgements daily, rushing from the receiving rooms from time to time to give her dressmakers opportunities for the necessary trying on of her new gowns.

Despite the fact, however, that Princss Mary has devoted so many hours to the receiving of presents, the demands upon her time have been so great that hundreds of persons have been obliged to leave their gifts with her secretaries or the palace attendants, and to such persons written acknowledgements will be sent.

Among the gifts received today was a pair of silver candlesticks from Rodman Wanamaker, of New York, presented for him by Colonel George Wood, a personal representative in London. Princess Mary thanked Colonel Wood and said the candlesticks would be placed among her choicest possessions and would always be greatly treasured.

Most of the presents received by the bride are of a useful character. One mammoth necklace, loaded with jewels, is so ponderous and heavy that it has earned from Prince George the designation of "Mary's serial necklace," as it will have to be worn in instalments This gift recalls a remark made aside by the late King Edward to a member of his party when given a similarly weighty present in India: "Now get a crane and let's take it home."

The precincts of Westminster Abbey and Buckingham Palace were thronged yesterday with the curious, who took advantage of the springlike weather to look over the wedding arrangements or await the chance of seeing the bride and bridegroom arriving at or leaving the palace door yard.

The weather conditions are being watched and speculated upon most closely in connection with today's event, as they appear to be the only unknown quantity in connection with the wedding. The details of the arrangements now having been completed, only a clear, sunlit day is required to make the setting ideal. The weather experts predict showers with intervals of sunshine. Those who have long been anticipating the event are hoping that one of these intervals will continue from 10:30 to 12:30 o'clock—the time during which the ceremony is to occur.

SUPREME COURT DECIDES WOMEN VOTE IS LEGAL

Dismisses Appeals In Brief Opinion By Justice Brandeis

BLOCKS REFERENDUM

Suffrage Amendment Held Equally Valid With The One Removing All Racial Barriers

Washington, Feb. 28.—In decisions that may assume historic importance, but seemed unusually brief and curt, the Supreme Court of the United States yesterday dismissed the attacks on the validity of the Nineteenth Amendment, granting suffrage to women.

Justice Louis D. Brandeis handed down the opinions. There was no dissent.

The attacks on the amendment were made in two cases. One was that brought by Oscar Leser and others aaginst J. Mercer Garnett, an election official in the Eleventh ward of Baltimore, challenging the legality of ballots accepted from women. The State courts decided against Mr. Leser The other case was brought by Charles S. Fairchild in the District of Columbia, where the courts decided against him.

In the Leser case the Supreme Court dismissed the petition for writ of error, brought when appeal was taken from the Maryland Court of Appeals, but granted the writ of certiorari asked by the appellants After deciding those points, Justice Brandeis discussed in a few words the arguments made by William L. Marbury, chief counsel for Mr. Leser. He held:

1. That the Nineteenth Amendment is like the Fifteenth. The former strikes down barriers to suffrage based on sex; the latter barriers based on race. One amendment can not be valid and the other invalid, and the Fifteenth has been accepted for many years. The contention that it was not adopted in accord with prescribed methods and was practically a war measure was put aside with the statement that it "can not be entertained."

2. That the laws of States can not restrict the Legislatures in acting on proposed Federal amendments. That action is a Federal function and the States have no power to change the methods prescribed in the Federal Constitution. This was in reference to State laws requiring submission of proposed Federal amendments to the people before adoption or rejection by the Legislature, which the opponents of suffrage contended had been violated.

3. That the point that the ratifications of Tennessee and West Virginia were not legally made might be dismissed with the statement that subsequently Connecticut and Vermont ratified. However, it was stated that the broader point should be made that certifications of ratification were made to the Secretary of State of the United States and he had no authority to go behind those certifications.

TO ACT ON ROAD FUND

Probable Measure to Pay Interest Charges on Pike Will be Adopted

It is expected that the board of aldermen tonight will report favorably on the ordinance adopted at an adjourned meeting of common council held recently appropriating money for the payment of one-half of the interest charges on the bonds to be issued by the county of Fairfax in conjunction with the construction of the highway between this city and Fairfax Courthouse, a distance of fourteen miles.

Inasmuch at the meeting tonight will be the regular meeting of the city council it is also expected that the ordinance providing for a white way on King street between Fairfax and Patrick streets, also will be presented for consideration. At a recent meeting of the board of aldermen that body referred the paper back to the joint committee from which it orininated after the measure had been adopted by the common council. It is generally believed that arrangements can be made whereby the ordinance will be adopted and the work started.

At the meeting tonight Aldermen W. L. Rammel of the second ward and Aldermen C. C. Batcheller of the fourth ward who recently tendered their resignations will attend and take part in the meeting, that body having laid their resignations on the table.

CONTRACT FOR NEW SCHOOL IS AWARDED

King Lumber Company of Charlottesville Lands Job at $63,467

HEAT TO BE WARM AIR

American Heating &Ventilating Co., on Bid of $10,200 and J. Kent White Gets Electric Work

The King Lumber Company of Charlottesville, Va., was awarded the contract for the construction of the new public school building by the joint committee on finance and schools of the city council at a meeting held last night in the chamber of the board of aldermen. They were the lowest bidders for the general construction work.

The American Heating and Ventilating Company, with headquarters in Richmond, was awarded the contract for heating and ventilating their bid of $10,200 being the lowest. This bid includes the installation of a warm air system together with the installation of the Johnson System of Milwaukee for regulating temperature and humidity which system cost $815, this being included in the bid of the concern which is $9,385 for heating less the cost of this system.

J. Kent White, of this city, was awarded the contract for the electrial work, he being the lowest bidder. The bid was $1,419.37.

The contracts awarded last night bring the total up to $75,086.63.

The committee has not yet received any bids for plumbing. Concrete walks and grading also are to be done under the direction of the city engineer. It is generally believed that all of the work when completed will come within the appropriation made by the city council which is $85,000.

The committee last night heard representatives of the heating and ventilating companies interested discuss the merits of their systems. Among those who spoke before the joint committee were: H. E. Huntberry, of the Biggs Heating Company, Washington, D. C., who put in a bid for steam heat for the building. W. Roy Eichberg, Richmond, vice president of the American Heating and Ventilating Company, Richmond, Va., and H. Hoffman, of Philadelphia, who spoke in behalf of the Johnson Service Company of Milwaukee, for installing the system regulating the temperature and humidity. A demonstration was given by Mr. Hoffman with a miniature of his system

W. L. Ticer, of Washington, who prepared the plans for the heating of the building under the direction of City Engineer E. C. Dunn, also gave his views regarding both warm air and steam heating. The meeting was presided over by E. F. Ticer, chairman of the finance committee of the city council.

Mr Huntsberry, of the Biggs Heating Company, told the committee that seam heating was the most economical of the two and that the heat is more uniform. He asserted that it is recognized fact that warm air heating plants are more or less antiquated. During the recent blizzard in Washington he asserted the schools that had steam heat were kept open and those that closed were where the warm system was installed. Steam heating plants he said are good for twenty to twenty-five years and warm air plants after seven or eight years need renewal.

Mr. Eichberg declared warm air furnacs had been used for the past half century and from time to time had greatly been improved were now being successfully used in the most modern schools throughout the country, he giving a list of the schools where they were being used with the greatest of satisfaction. They he declared maintain an even temperature and through this system a classroom can be quickly heated.

Mr. Hoffman explained the thermostat and he gave a demonstration with his miniature plant.

It was 11 o'clock before the committee completed its deliberations in connection with the awarding of the contract.

The new school as heretofore stated will contain seventeen class rooms with a capacity of forty pupils to each room or a total capacity of 680 pupils and it will be erected on the lot of the Alexandria High School.

It is expected that work on the new building probably will be started within the next thirty days and the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by next September for the new scholastic session of the schools.

Richmnd—Notice was served on the Senate finance committee this morning by E. L. Bemiss, representing the Medical College of Virginia, that unless an addition of at least $58,000 to the appropriation for that institution is made by the general assembly, the Medical College of Virginia will be forced to close its doors next session.

WHITE WAY TONIGHT

Two important measures are coming before the Board of Aldermen tonight, the Road to Fairfax, and the White Way on King Street. There seems to be no doubt as to the passage of the measure involving the construction of the Fairfax road. The White Way is believed to be safe, but there has been some opposition on the part of short-sighted people, on the ground that other parts of the city should be improved before King street received attention. The construction of a White Way on the city's most crowded thoroughfare has other important measures incident to it, and in a degree dependent upon it. Such as, for instance, the Fox's Ferry proposition. To kill this former measure at this time would be to stifle advancement all along the line. To put it over means a great step forward. Alexandria has already become a spot-light on account of its mere consideration. It will attract thousands this summer, not only from the great city of Washington, but from the rural districts for miles around; to say nothing of the Maryland suburban traffic that would come with the Ferry. Thousands of visitors mean thousands upon thousands of dollars spent in the city this summer and fall. This money, added to taxable values, and the other additions to the program that would ensue as a consequence, will put Alexandria in position to enter upon a period of general improvement that would almost create a new city in appearance.

To the Honorable Board of Aldermen The Gazette has but one suggestion: Other things being equal, vote for that measure that has the appearance, at least, of improving the city. There are always opponents of any measure. They can not please both sides; that is self-evident. If the White Way measure is killed, there will probably be no active steps taken for any other street improvements this summer. Next fall we are to try a new city government. One of the last acts of the present city administration will be to pass or kill a measure that certainly is in the line of progress. All we can say is, that if each alderman votes in absolute accord with his conscience as to what is the most broad-minded and progressive view bearing on the best interests of the city at large, he will certainly vote to have a thoroughfare that would add fame to Alexandria and become one of its most attractive features. The whole city is certainly greater than any of its parts. Patriotism and not local selfishness must be the true arbiter.

TRINKLE AND THE BOND ISSUE

Some weeks ago The Gazette took up the question of good roads and a bond issue, and went into the matter somewhat exhaustively. After careful consideration, and satisfying itself that an issue of bonds, say five millions for 1922 and seven millions for 1923, would not involve one cent increase in taxes, we announced ourselves in favor of issues approximating these amounts.

We were unaware of Governor Trinkle's attitude at the time, but are glad to note that in his speech at Norfolk, on 22d instant, he declared his belief that now is the time for a bond issue, and suggested the amount as ten to twelve million dollars. We were strong Trinkle partisans during the campaign last summer, and there has never been any doubt in our mind that he would make good in the fulfillment of our expectations as one of Virginia's ablest executives. His attitude on a conservative bond issue for good roads in Virginia will have the approval of every right-thinking citizen in the Old Dominion.

RIVERS AND HARBORS CONGRESS

Tomorrow and Thursday the National Rivers and Harbors Congress will meet in the Assembly Hall of the New Willard Hotel, Washington. It is the seventeenth annual convention of that body, and promises to be one of the largest and most successful yet held.

There will be three sessions the first day, held at 10 o'clock, a. m., and 2 and 8, p. m. Thursday, there will be a session at 10 a. m., and one at 2 p. m. At 7:30 o'clock, there will be a banquet at the New Willard, to which ladies are especially invited. The Secretary will occupy Room 904; the press headquarters will be found at Room 1003; both at the New Willard Hotel. The permanent headquarters of the Secretary are at 824 Colorado Building, Washington.

SAFETY OF GIANT SEQUOIAS PLEDGED BY FOREST SERIVCE

Washington, D. C.,—"No living sequoias have ever been cut by the Forest Service and no need fear that the service will consent to the sacrifice of a single tree of this species for commercial or utilitarian purposes."

This statement was made to-day by Col. W. B. Greely, Chief of the Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture. It is a reply to recent editorials that the apprehensive of the fate of certain giant sequoias in California, which pending legislation proposes to turn over to the administration of the Forest Service.

"It is not generally known. "Col. Creeley continued. "that already several thousand members of this royal tree family stand within the National Forest of California. The Sequoia Forest contain many splendid specimens East of Hot Springs, Cal., is a group depresenting the most southerly occurence of the species. This grove is unique in that it contains all stages of growth from seedlings to lofty veterans whose age probably antedates the Christian era by 1000 years.

"Long ago the Forest Service decided that these trees, the oldest of living things, contribute more to human progress and welfare in their present condition than they could possibly contribute as lumber. It has therefore been the invariable rule since the creation of the Forest Service 17 years ago that no sequoias shall be cut from National Forest land."

Poems and Portraits. Don Marquis. Doubleday, Page and Company, New York.

To those who have long loved Don Marquis this collection of his poems will be more than welcome. He is more than a columnist; it is not enough to read his verses in The Sun Dial. We must have something between covers,—a book for our shelves, to which we can turn for a graceful thought, a happy phrase, some expression of his biting wit.

The book is divided into two distinct halves. The first, Poems and Portraits, shows Don Marquis, the Dreamer. In one or two of the poems he rises to really great heights and clothes his images in languages of amazing beauty. All the poignant beauty of Spring is gathered into the first four lines of his "Song in Springtime:"

"Inexorable Spring comes on to hurt me,
With all her aching ecstasy,
And sudden beauty like a javelin
Pierces the heart of me."

The second group, Savage Portraits, is just as characteristic of this many-sided genius. "Miss Pringle" is quoted in a hundred reviews. The Quinks are known to all of us; Tessie Smithers walks our streets every afternoon; Adele belongs to every woman's club. "Sank" is the best of its kind since Kipling immortalized "Tomlinson." And reading through the verses we are inclined to agree with the Devil of that same poem, "There's sore decline in Adam's line if this be the spawn of earth."

Potomac Landings. By Paul Wilstach. Doubleday, Page and Co., New York.

It is not surprising that this book heads the non-fiction lists at all bookstores. People are asking for it because it is worth while. The whole country owes a debt to Paul Wilstach for giving us this carefully prepared and charmingly worded story of the Potomac river and its close association with the histories of Maryland and Virginia.

Mr. Wilstach has captured the fine spirit of Colonial days; made the hard riding, hard drinking, choleric gentleman of that period live again in the pages of his book. There is the rustle of silken petticoats across these same pages, the flutter of white hands, a drift of rose leaves. The old names charm our ears like music. Well known characters of history walk familiarly among us and talk as friends.

Three Soldiers. By John Dos Passos. George H. Doran Company, New York.

You may like it. Quite probably you will hate it. But you will think about it, feel violently, find neutrality impossible. It is unquestionably a great book; possibly the greatest war book we have had. The author is terribly in earnest. He has a story to tell; a case to present, the case of Young America vs. the War Machine. Critics call it unpleasant, overdrawn, dreadful. Perhaps it is but it is also all the comulative horror of War and its effects upon mind and body crowded into a few hundred pages.

In three soldiers, Fuselli, Crisfield, John Andrews,—we have a composite picture of the American Army. The author tells their story with brutal frankness; not one single fault is minimized; not a single evil glossed over. Instead, he paints the frailties of the flesh with dreadful clearness, redeeming his characters only by a blind, unrealized groping for beauty and freedom. It is the eternal desire of the moth for the star,—in Fuselli and Crisfield exemplified by purely earthly things; in John Andrews by a soul hunger too long denied.

FEDERAL ROAD FUNDS SHARED BY NATIONAL FOREST STATE

Fifteen million dollars has been apportioned by the Secretary of Agriculture among 27 States, Alaska, and Porto Rico for the construction of National Forest roads and trails. Of this sum $9,500,000 known as the "National Forest Highway Fund" is set aside for roads of primary importance to States, counties and National Forest communities; $5,500,000 constituting the "National Forest Development Fund" will be used for the construction of roads and trails needed for the administration and utilization of the forests themselves.

These appropriations, forestry officials state, will give a new impetus to the work of opening up vast tracts of valuable timber and areas of scenic beauty for the use and enjoyment of the American people.

The development of roads and trails throughout the forests will aid materially in fire protection. At present there are large areas of trackless wilderness within the National Forests that cannot be reached by trails. When lightning storms sweep over these inaccessible areas, heavy fire losses of public timber often occur.

Speed in reaching a forest fire, foresters say, is just as important in protecting the country's forests as is speed in city fire protection. But high speed within forests means 4 of 5 miles an hour over a mountain trail. If no trail exists it is often impossible for the fire fighters to average more than one-fourth of a mile an hour.

In the past, construction of many urgently needed forest roads has been deferred for lack of sufficient funds. Much of this work can now go forward. The Forest Service estimates that eventually over $100,000,000 will be required to supply a thoroughly adequate transportation system throughout the 156,000,000 acres within the National Forests.

TUESDAY, MARCH 1, 1814

COMMUNICATION

This is the day, on which the voters for Common Councilmen are to offer their suffrages; a day which is to decide the character of the Town. Heretofore the election of Common Councilmen, has been considered an occasion of minor importance. The only object of those, who are really interested in the welfare of the Town, has been, to select such men as were capable of managing its affairs, without regard to their politics.

A few men however, who have no interest in the town, have made this day's election a party question, and have succeeded in enlisting the passions and energies of their political friends almost to a man, into the contest. The true friends to the welfare and character of the town can decide it if they please. Let every friend to peace, order, and good government be at his post.

Corn and Flour Are Wanted For Russia

Fifteen Million people Will Starve This Winter Unless Food is Given

Fifteen million people are starving in Russia. All the relief combined can, in its greatest possible extent, now feed only 3,000,000 people. In some villages the death rate is rapidly mounting toward 100 per cent. Death is taking whole villages. Twelve million men, women and children of the farming families on whom a great part of the life of Europe normally depends for food, face the agony of death by starvation unless aid is given.

These are the facts which set the Quakers to the task of raising 1,000,000 barrels of flour in America to be added to the relief now being carried on.

"Where a few months ago," said Colonel Haskell, head of the Hoover Relief in Russia, recently, "the people were dying by hundreds, they are now dying by thousands. In a few months they will be dying by hundreds of thousands. One of the relief men in a trip covering more than 400 miles found only two places where food could be had for love or money. In the Saratov district they are dying so fast that bodies are literally being hauled away by the cartload."

"Whereas 1,500,000 children are now being fed in Russia," continued Colonel Haskell "this number should be doubled, at the very least, to meet absolute minimum requirements and prevent wholesale child starvation."

And there are 13,500 others like these whose need is as great.

Six thousand elevator men in the corn belt have been appealed to for free service in receiving, shelling and storing corn until a carload is secured. The Quakers will then receive the car and pay all transportation charges. It will be milled en route to seaboard, and converted into hominy and corn grits.

From people who live in towns and cities or do not have corn to give, flour is asked. A letter has been sent to the American millers asking them to solicit gifts of flour in their communities, selling the flour to the people at cost. The Friends will accept flour in any quantity and transport it to Russia for the starving peasants.

The Quakers have had a relief organization in Russia for over a year, having reached over 100,000 undernourished children in Moscow since August, 1920. Their present organization, trained and experienced by actual contact with Russia's need, and enlarged and equipped to meet famine conditions, will administer the relief you send.

Briefly, the plan of the American Friends Service Committee. is as follows: 1. To ask the millers and farmers to contribute as large a quantity of corn and flour as they may be disposed to give for Russian famine relief. 2. To ask others in the vicinity, fellow townsmen, local organizations and relief groups, to join in the shipment for Russia.

The American Friends Service Committee is prepared to pay the freight on all shipments to seaboard and will guarantee delivery and proper distribution in Russia, under its own auspices and direction. It requests, however, that where possible, shipments be accumulated until a carload is secured.

The headquarters of the American Friends Service Committee are at 20 South 12th street, Philadelphia, Pa.

"THE SHEIK" HERE

The Most Sensational Screen Success In History in Alexandria For a Three Day Stay

"The Sheik," featuring Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino, begins a three-day run at the Idle Hour Theater today. This play abounds in wonderfully dramatic scenes, and in it photoplays seem to have reached their acme. The story is taken from the new world-famous novel of the same name, written by E. M. Hull. Since its first appearance some months ago, this picture has been seen and favorably commented upon by thousands of Americans. In the history of moving pictures there is no record of a more universal screen success. The acting of Valentino in the title role, Sheik Ahmed Ben Hassan, is superb.

"Disraeli" Scores Hit

George Arliss Makes Friends With Large Audience Last Night at Richmond

"Disraeli," with Geo. Arliss in the title role, scored a wonderful success at the Richmond Theatre last night. The picture is a picture of politics and love—chiefly love. Mr. Arliss gives to his character all the cunning of a politician and at the same time weaves in the threads of love's philosophy now and then. He proves himself to be equally proficient in either of these arts. Sometimes he is all reserve and in this reserve holds his power. At other times he is open and bold and still retains his powerful influence. Probably the most dramatic scene in the production is when he throws aside all caution and forces his enemy, Sir Michael Probert, governor of the Bank of England, to sign the paper which saves for England India and Hugh Myers. It is really a fine picture, and one to be enjoyed fully by every one. It will be shown again today. C. W. H.

taining my release from the Atlanta Penitentiary from which place I was released in a dying condition."

The Attorney General declined to answer Morse's statement but said that United States Attorney Gordon would be his mouthpiece in all matters pertaining to the case.

Mr. Gordon said today in discussing the statement issued by Morse that the man had had as fair a deal before the grand jury as could be given.

He came to me said Mr. Gordon and asked to be allowed to go before the grand jury. I told him that I did not wish to establish a precedent of trying cases before that body and denied his request. I did say that he could talk to the panel for two weeks if it were not for that objection.

Attorney Wilton J. Lambert representing More said last night that he has no doubt as to the outcome of the case.

"If Morse had been allowed to go before the grand jury" said Mr. Lambert, "he would be cleared now of the charges filed against him I am confident that when certain facts are laid before the petit jury Morse will walk from the courtroom a free man as will all of the others who were indicted."

Fifty overta acts are cited in the indictments returned and documentary proof supporting these charges filed.

Immediately after the indictment had been returned E. A. Morse visited the office of United States Attorney Peyton Gordon and was told that he would be required to furnish bond of $10,000 for his appearance when the case comes to trial. Morse intimated that he and the other men indicted had been given a rather raw deal" and felt that the Government had gone too far by placing the stigma of an indictment on innocent men.

Morse then remarked that he felt if he had been permitted to go before the Grand Jury he could easily have dispelled all doubt in the minds of the talesmen as to the innocence of all the alleged transactions and the men would all go free.

Charles W. Morse, who is under bonds of $50,000 for his appearance did not go to the courthouse yesterday but following the return of the indictments issued a statement charging that the Attorney General was persecuting him and eleven other innocent men.

WHY CANNED FOODS WEEK?

National Canned Foods Week, which is being observed the country March 1st to 8th, under the auspices of canners, food brokers, jobbers retailers and allied organizations, may seem somewhat like "painting the lily." With most of us, every week is canned foods week. But we have come to take canned foods so much for granted it is undoubtedly well for us to be reminded of just what the invention of canning really means to us. The less spectacular, the science of canning was a discoverly only equalled in importance by such inventions as the telephone, the wireless and the aeroplane. When we stop to realize that food, shelter and clothing are man's most vital needs, and what a large proportion of our food is preserved for us and brought to us today in canned form, we better understand the full significance of this important discovery.

Pickling or drying were the only methods of preserving foods that were known up until about a century ago. In 1795 the necessities of war prompted the French Government to offer a reward of 12,000 francs for a better method of food preservation. The prize was awarded to Nicholas Appert and his method stands today as the real basis of our present process of canning—namely, hermetic sealing and sterilization by heat.

This discovery has added immeasurably to the wealth of the world. because it has meant that at times of harvest the surplus crops, which it is impossible to get to market before they spoil, have not had to go to waste, but have been preserved for use at other periods of the year when Nature is producing less and when, but for the science of canning, we would have to subsist on much less attractive fare. This is conservation in the broadest and most economic sense of the word.

But the process of canning not only benefits the world at large; it has very definite advantages for each of us as individuals,—for that much talked of Mr. Average-Man-in the Street and his House-wife-in the Kitchen. "Canning" eliminates the seasons. In effect, it "makes summer last all the year 'round," and in midwinter brings us the crops of midsummer.

And canning also eliminates space or sectionalism,—for those of us who live in the interior may still enjoy oysters, crabs, lobsters and other sea foods whenever we wish; and those of us who live in the Eastern states may nevertheless have access to the delicious fruit crops of California and Hawaii. And so on the world over. The pioneer in Alaska, the miner in the mountains of South America the explorer in the Antartic, men and women everywhere on the fringes of civilization all have at hand—thanks to the can—the same wholesome appetizing foods that are served to the most exacting guest in an exclusive New York Hotel.

Because the science of canning has so done away with time and space—with respect to food—the can has come to be known as a modern genie of the home. The housewife whose pantry shelves are well stocked with canned foods is able to choose her meal from whatever corner of the world her whim suggests.

There are very few women in the country that do not know the great convenience of canned foods,—that comfortable feeling which comes from knowing that you have directly at hand practically every sort and kind of food—literally from soup to nuts; foods that are cooked and ready to serve, requiring at most no more than a few moments preparation.

All women have the satisfaction of knowing, too, that they have a quality of food that they may serve to the most particular guest or to the most delicate child. For canned foods are selected at just the right point of ripeness or other condition that makes them best for eating. And then, being cooked or prepared within the can, they retain all the nutritive value an ddelicious flavor of the fresh product. Indeed, there are conditions surrounding the marketing of many fresh foods that necessarily make them inferior to the canned.

The wholesomeness of canned foods—scientifically prepared under conditions of the most scruplous sanitation—has long been recognized. There is perhaps no more emphatic evidence of this than the views of military and medical authorities who point out that in event of an epidemic, requiring that a community have pure and wholesome food, no more safe and certain means of protection could be adopted than to eliminate the use of all but canned foods.

Even after years of usage there are still many of us who do not fully appreciate the infinite possibilities of canned foods. It is for education along these lines that Canned Foods Week was instituted and grocers throughout the country are now displaying their wide variety of canned foods, while manufacturers tell us by printed word we may use their many products to best advantage for our health and happiness.

"Has this fellow no feeling of his business?"
—Shakespeare

COMMONPLACE, uninteresting—so the restaurant business seems to you, perhaps. But to us it has the qualities of an art. An improved flavor, a bettered service, a richer brown to a roast, a perfected pastry—these are as dawns, vistas and tints in painting to an artist, superior expressions of genius. By this pride we insure your pleasure when you lunch in Washington. Come!

Graceful Lines In a Comfort Shoe

Most shoes distort the foot because they are wrongly shaped. They bind the muscles, retard circulation, and frequently cause fallen arches, corns and bunions. Many physical ills and nervous disorders are directly traceable to incorrectly shaped and fitted shoes.

Without departing from harmony in line, the Cantilever Shoe conforms to the natural contour of the foot—gives correct space for each portion of the foot—distributes the body weight without strain over the heel, the ball, and outside of the foot—flexes with the instep, sustains the arch without use of appliances, gives firm, restful support to the small bones of the foot.

Because the foot is correctly fitted in Cantilever Shoes, one walks with an easy-swinging carriage—a natural charm of movement.

Come and see how good looking a correct shoe can be. We are the sole agents for Cantilever Shoes.

Were Railroad Workers "Slackers" While The Nation Was at War?

Perhaps the most persistently stated charge against the Railroad Administration is that hundreds of thousands of workers were unnecessarily added to payrolls when the railroads were under Federal control and that "slacking" by all workers was a common practice.

Mr. Walker D. Hines, one of the country's foremost railroad managers, who succeeded William Gibbs McAdoo as director general of transportation, completely refutes this allegation.

In his report to the President, March 1, 1920, Mr. Hines said:

"The apparent predisposition on the part of a large portion of the public to attribute this policy (increasing the working personnel) to a governmental agency has led various speakers and newspapers into a wholly incorrect estimate of the situation."

WORKING HOURS LESS UNDER FEDERAL CONTROL.

Practically all railroad workers, Mr. Hines said, were paid by the hour, therefore the number of men employed was of no significance. The outstanding fact is that the government actually paid for less hours than during private operation. Mr. Hines in his report said:

"The controlling fact in this matter of the number is that the number is determined by the number of hours they work per day. Eight hours of work can be done in a day by eight employes if they work ten hours each, while it would taek ten employes working eight hours each to do the same amount of work.

"The eight-hour day has been established as a general policy of the railroad Administration. This change of policy has undoubtedly brought about an increase in the number of employes, but it has not brought about an increase in the number of hours of work paid for.

"It is the number of hours of work paid for and not the number of employees which is the significant thing with respect to operating expenses.

"The fact is that the number of hours of work paid by the Railroad Administration in 1919 was less than in 1916, 1917 or 1918."

The efficiency of the workers during Federal control is vouched for by Mr. Hines, who declares that they delivered a greater number of traffic units per man hour than had ever before been obtained.

Testifying before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, January 24, 1922, Mr. Hines said that the traffic units of service per man hour had increased from 82 per cent in 1915 to 96 per cent in 1917 and 1918 and to 100 per cent in 1919, "A greater number of traffic units per man hour than had ever been obtained before."

Evidence corroborating Mr. iHnes' tribute to efficiency of workers was given by Mr. McAdoo, former director of railroads, in testimony before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, February 1, 1922. Mr. McAdoo said:

EMPLOYES PATRIOTIC AND LOYAL.

"As a step in the direction of using more efficiently the available (railroad) facilities and forces, the Railroad Administration called on the representatives of the organized railroad workers to agree to certain modifications in their contracts with the railroads relative to hours of labor and to agree also to modifications of the rules governing the promotion of mechanics to apprentices and helpers.

"Under these modifications the railroad employees patriotically gave up privileges and concessions which their organizations had obtained through many years of negotiation and controversy, in which they agreed to an extension of the hours of service to 70 per week, and to the promotion of all competent helpers and apprentices to mechanics wherever a shortage of mechanics existed.

"The concessions granted to the government by the labor organizations at this time could not have been obtained by the railroad managements under any conditions.

"The employes had previously refused to make similar concessions to the railroad corporations because of their belief that once they gave up these privileges they would never be restored under private control."

The savings resulting to the railroads from these concessions by employees approximated $50,000,000 a year, Mr. McAdoo says.

Mr. McAdoo presented to the Senate Committee official reports of distinguished railroad officials attesting the patriotism and efficiency of labor.

Railroad Officials Pay Tributes

Regional Director Aishton who, prior to federal control was president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad and is now president of the American Railway Association, in his report for 1918, testifies "to the loyal times by employes." In his 1919 report Mr. Aishton expressed "most sincere appreciation for the splendid, loyal and efficient support given at all times by the officers and employees of all railroads in the North west region".

A. H. Smith is one of the leading railroad executives of the country. Before Federal Control he was president of the New York Central. He was made Regional Director of the Eastern District by Mr. McAdoo and continued in that capacity for many months. At the conclusion of his public service he returned to the New York Central as its head, and since has been regarded as an authorized spokesman for the Associaiton of Railway Executives.

In his report of operations for 1918 Mr. Smith said:

"Men had their hands, feet and faces frozen digging out trains stalled on the line or endeavoring to get trains over the road; office, shop and other forces turned out voluntarily to help shovel snow and ice from yards and switches, and officers and employees remained on duty for long periods under the most trying conditions without question, reflecting a spirit of self sacrifice in the common cause and a determination to contribute as fully as possible in bringing the war to a successful conclusion."

Every regional director, all of whom were and are now among the foremost railroad executives, paid similar tribute to the loyalty and efficiency of the workers during the most trying years of the nation's history.

'Largest Return Per Man in History'

The facts are that during the period of federal control the workers received "less pay than any other class of industrial workers doing similar work" (testimony of Mr. McAdoo, before Interstate Commerce Commission,) and in return gave "the largest return per man hour in the history of the railroads, so far as comparable records are available" (report of Mr. Hines to the President, March, 1920.)

Instead of "slacking," as has been charged by certain railroad executives and their spokesmen, railroad workers gave up privileges and concessions long enjoyed, and "throughout the entire period of the war stood by their jobs and worked loyally and efficiently." (Mr. McAdoo's testimony).

The records of the workers, Mr. McAdoo declares, speaks for itself. "No stronger refutation of the charge that railroad men were inefficient or indifferent to the interests of the Railroad Administration and of their country in its great emergency could be adduced," Mr. McAdoo told the Senate Committee.

"What I have said applies to all employees of the railroads, who, with patriotism and zeal, served their country in that great time."

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE WHITENS RED HANDS

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have a quarter-pint of harmless and delightful lemon-bleach lotion to soften and whiten red, rough or chapped hands. This home-made lemon lotion is far superior to glycerin and rose water to smoothen the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, because it doesn't irritate.

CALOMEL MAY TURN ON YOU NEXT TIME

Next Dose You Take May Salivate and Start World of Trouble

Calomel is mercury; quicksilver. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it dosen't stare your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day: it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and cannot salivate.

The Threatened Coal Strike:

It seems to be the general opinion that there will be a coal strike on April first and, without having any special knowledge on the subject, we advise our customers to secure enough coal IMMEDIATELY to carry them through THE REMAINDER OF THIS SEASON.

This advice is intended for the domestic user of coal, but to those using coal for other purposes we advise storing A REASONABLE RESERVE before the increased agitation makes it hard to do this, which is almost sure to happen during next month.

AID THE CHILDREN

Even prison walls many foot thick, grated doors and windows and guarded colls cannot conclude the appeal of the cries of the thousands of destitute children in the Near East, slowly starving because of the lack of funds with which to food them Nor can jailors and bitter hard work day after day dim the flame of pity their appeal strikes in piercing the hardened hart of the felon, the murder and the lawless.

This is illustrated by a number of contributions which have come from the penitentiary and prisons through out the State, the latest being one recived from Frank Dunston, a negro convict, who sent 25 cents through George W. Crabtree, prison evangelist, at Catlett, to aid in fooding tohse thousands of helpless young ones. This represents two and a half days of hard work on the Virginia Roads. Dunston is serving a ten years sentence.

Virginia is raising $300,000, equivalent to the support of 5,000 of the 100,000 orphans in the Near East Relief orphanages and asylums of refuge. This is the State's quota in the national compaign. Thousands of children are reported in terrible circumstances because of the inability of the Near East Relief to accommodate more children. Thousands are said to be slowly starving because there is no way or money with which to feed them. Near East officials are urging early subscription of the quota of the State, so that it may be put to use before the winter is ove and alleviate some of the grat su. fring in this devastated land.

Boosters Story

I'd rather be a booster than a knocker,
For a booster is always gay,
And his smile brings back the sunshine
The knocker's frown took away.
What's the use of growling, it won't bring
You either wealth or fame,
And whether you smile or frown the world
Goes on just the same.
You would soon forget the mud
Beneath your feet
If you wear a booster's smile,
for everyone you meet.
If you see a filthy waste pipe,
Smile at it as a joke,
But do your duty as a citizen,
And report it to Dr. Folk.
What is the use of knocking,
There is nothing you can gain,
For Alexandria isn't the only place
Where they have snow and rain.
The council men are doing
The very best they can,
And the best is all you can except
From any mortal man.
We all admit that Alexandria
Has a few streets that are bad.
But the city council don't possess
The lamp Aladdin had.
If council paved those little
Muddy tracks
The knocker'd be the first one
To kick about the tax.
Today he kicks because he finds
A muddy street;
Next summer he will kick because
No shade trees protect him from the heat
You will find the kicker.
No matter where you go,
With his frown and little
Tale of woe.
The pessimist and growler,
All they do is kick.
They say let's get together, but
They're the kind that never stick.
We all have met the kickers,
Who are filled with care and strife,
And I have often wondered
What pleasure they got out of life.
When the booster meets a difficulty he
Smiles as only a booster can,
And goes to work and tries to Overcome it like a man.
When it is snowing he doesn't kick
Because the weather's bad,
He thinks of the heat last summer
And smiles, for it makes him glad.
In the summer when the old growler
Kicks about the heat,
You'll still find a smile upon the face
Of every booster that you meet.
So why not stop kicking and frowning,
For it never was worth while,
And join the line of boosters,
And always wear a smile.

How Ironized Yeast Fills Out Figure

And Puts New "Pep" and Energy in Thin, Nervous, Rundown Folks

Hundreds of thousands of people all over the country are now taking IRONIZED YEAST tablets for health with results which in many cases are actually astonishing. For thin folks to gain five pounds or more in the very first package is not unusual. Complexions blotched with pimples, etc., are very often entirely cleared up within 10 to 14 days. As for increasing "pep" and energy, apparent "miracles" are reported by folks who were formerly rundown, weak, and lacking in physical and mental vigor.

FREE! Mail coupon below for Amazing Three Day Trial Treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. Watch the Results!

Here Is The Secret!

Nature intended that you should have a well developed figure, with the clear skin, sparkling eyes, strong nerves and rugged strength that goes with it. And if you are now thin and run-down it is because certain of Nature's laws have been disobeyed. Nature requires that we get a proper amount of vitamines and iron into our systems. But these two essential elements are lacking in the modern diet. That is why so many of us are thin and run-down.

Yeast Best When Ironized

The thing to do is to supply this lack by taking with each meal two tiny IRONIZED YEAST tablets which contain in highly concentrated form, a specially cultured yeast grown under the strictest supervision for medicinal purposes—a yeast unequalled for its richness in the essential Water Soluble B vitamines. In addition it contains the correct amount of the two other vitamines —Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C—which are equally important to health. These three vitamines bring excellent results even if taken alone—but when taken with a proper amount of easily assimilated organic iron, as in IRONIZED YEAST, these results are secured often in just half the usual time!

Watch The Results!

Note how IRONIZED YEAST immediately increases your appetite—how it enables you to get real joy out of every morsel of food you eat. See how quickly it drives away pimples, blackheads, etc., and how your newly acquired "pep" makes hard work or play a pleasure instead of a task. Try IRONIZED YEAST today! Pleasant to take—will not cause gas or in any way upset the stomach. Each IRONIZED YEAST tablet wrapped air-tight in waxed sanitape when made, thus assuring 100% purity and strength. Special directions for children. Go to your druggist or mail coupon today—NOW!

WARNING!

Not all yeast will give the desired results. There are certain types of yeast which have absolutely no value medicinally. By insisting on the genuine IRONIZED YEAST, and refusing cheaper imitations or substitutes you can be sure that you are taking a vitamine tonic treatment which is unsurpassed in effectiveness, convenience and genuine health-building value.
